Passionate, positive and high energy are three words I hear most when people describe me. I'm an intrepid traveler at heart. I love learning and exploring new cultures. I happily lose days immersing myself in the texture of foreign places. I'm a big thinker and I like to mix things up, so designing change is a natural work playground for me. At home you'll find me somewhere near or on a beach with my two dogs not far behind.

If you had to write a book, what will the title be? Why?

Title: Culture - cooking unveiled - local toothsome umami rich eats!
Why: because I would need to travel all the corners of the earth to find the recipes.

How did you get to know PS and how did you become involved?

Through Victoria - I was inspired by her passion and commitment and I offered to help.

Why PeopleStories?

I have a deeply aligned purpose to people stories - I strongly believe an education is the door to the world and something that everyone should be able to access.

You are very generous with your support to PeopleStories. What do you get out of it for yourself?

There are two quotes that I think sum it up - one by Anne Frank "No one ever became poor from giving" and the other from Brian Tracey - "Always give without remembering and always receive without forgetting".

I'm a big believer in the law of reciprocity which put simply means, what goes around comes around. I'm very grateful for the many things I have received from others and people stories is one of my opportunities to give back in a way that is meaningful and helps others

If you are granted 3 wishes to make the world a better place, what would those wishes be?

I think everyone says world peace, and its true but feels so hard to achieve. Instead, I'm going to be cheeky and combine my 3 wishes into 1 big wish to achieve the UN's 17 sustainable development goals - No poverty, zero hunger, good health and wellbeing, quality education, gender equality, clean water and sanitation, affordable and clean energy, decent work and economic growth, industry, innovation and infrastructure, reduced inequalities, sustainable cities and communities, responsible consumption and production, climate action, life below water, life on land, peace justice and strong institutions, partnerships for the goals.
